MISSION POSSIBLE

“Jesus looked at them and said, “With people this is impossible, but with God all things are possible.”” – Matthew 19:26

The entertainment series Mission Impossible, whether in the early television version (1966-1973) or the more recent film series featuring Tom Cruise (1996-2018), has spanned several generations with intrigue and lots of fast action.

Each episode begins with Mr. Phelps or Ethan Hunt receiving their mission, which is impossible of course. The segment closes with the iconic phrase, “Your mission, should you choose to accept it...” Then the device they were listening to self-destructs and the theme music crescendos.

Each episode, each movie our heroes are given a nearly impossible mission to complete and somehow they find a way to accomplish it, thanks to the magic of television or cinema.

You and I have also been given a mission. It’s a mission found in the Bible (which will not self-destruct!). It’s a big, audacious mission, a mission that matters to the whole world. But it isn’t an impossible mission because it isn’t a mission that we do on our own. We’ve been empowered for this mission by the Holy Spirit. And here’s the mission in Jesus’ own words, “You will be my witnesses...to the end of the earth.” (Acts 1:8)

You see, God is at work in our world comforting the grieving, healing the broken-hearted, freeing people from bondage, giving hope to the hopeless.

Our mission is to join God in that work of loving others, telling them about Jesus and then inviting them to share in that mission. If the Church (that’s you and me) is going to thrive we need to know the mission, accept the mission, and do the mission!

The month of October will be that mission. During this time, we will pray, worship, and learn how we each share in that mission together through our support and giving. We hope you will join us each week to make this mission possible!

Your mission, should you choose to accept it...

- Wipes (especially for sensitive skin)

Bedding Ministry:

- Like-new sheets for all sizes
- New bed pillows
- Like-new blankets
- Like-new mattress covers

Monetary donations are also accepted. Make checks payable to "Love INC," with the appropriate ministry indicated in the memo.

Shoe Boxes can Hold More than Shoes

Because of the generosity of donors across the world, Operation Christmas Child (OCC) collected more than 10.6 million shoeboxes in 2018. Packed with fun toys, school supplies and hygiene items, these gifts bring joy and the eternal hope of the Gospel to children suffering from poverty, natural disasters, war, disease and famine around the world.

Many children who receive shoebox gifts will also enroll in a 12-lesson discipleship program, The Greatest Journey. This program teaches children about God's amazing love and guides them through what it means to faithfully follow Jesus Christ. Since 2010, more than 14 million children have participated in the program. Every child who graduates is given a New Testament in their own language.

Below is Agnes's amazing story. You can find more stories like this and more information about OCC at www.samaritanspurse.org/what-we-do/operation-christmas-child.

Peace Lutheran will be collecting items through November 20th. The donation drop box is by the large classroom. Don't like to shop? Noisy offering collected in September, October and November will also be going to OCC so you can "sponsor a box" by donating to Noisy Offering.

OCC'S Discipleship Program is Helping People

Discover the Power of the Gospel

In the desert village of Serinane, hours outside Botswana's capital Gaborone, jobs are hard to come by. The little money that finds its way to the village is often spent on alcohol; many families are hurting as a result. Life is difficult for everyone here. Change will only come person by person, with God's transforming power.

Agnes Khumo is one who has been changed as she's learned to receive God's love, to love others, and to forgive her mother. The Lord used Operation Christmas Child (OCC) and The Greatest Journey discipleship program to bring spiritual healing and wholeness in her life.

"I hated my mother, and my mother did not like me," Agnes said. "She gave all her love to my siblings."

Her mother, Gomotsegang Khumo, had married a man with six young children and Agnes, a teenager at the time, was left to fend for herself. She felt abandoned.

"I thought: Maybe I should just pack my clothes and go live somewhere else," Agnes recalled.

But it was then that she received an OCC shoebox gift and God began to open Agnes's heart to the Greatest Gift—Jesus Christ. In her box she received dolls, a Bible, and playing cards with Bible verses on them. She also signed up to attend The Greatest Journey, a 12-lesson discipleship program for shoebox gift recipients. It was during these classes that she really started to comprehend God's love for her.

"That's when I began to understand, and I received Jesus," she said.

Journey to Forgiveness

As Agnes continued to faithfully attend The Greatest Journey classes, God began to work on her heart about the unforgiveness she had toward her mother.

"In the classes they talked about honoring your father and mother," Agnes said. "And in church our pastor talked about forgiveness. I didn't want to honor my mom but my pastor told me to pray and pray and pray. And that's the only reason I wanted to have a relationship with my mother. I started to help her and to obey her even though I didn't want to."

She also learned about forgiveness—God's forgiveness toward her and the forgiveness she should have toward her mother.

"Little step after little step I learned to forgive my mom," Agnes said. As Agnes's relationship with her mother grew stronger and as her mother noticed changes in her, Agnes was able to tell her about her new relationship with God.

"I began talking to my mom about Jesus," Agnes said. God began to work in her mother's heart.

A Mom and Family Transformed

Gomotsegang, Agnes's mother, said that as she continued to see the difference in her daughter, she knew she also wanted to change.

"I was in a religion that worshipped a bishop, and we also were practicing witchcraft," said Gomotsegang. "But I didn't want to be involved in that anymore. After seeing the change in Agnes, I wanted to be saved and follow Jesus Christ too."

Gomotsegang did receive Jesus Christ as her Lord and Savior, and her life has not been the same since.

"[Now] there is peace and joy in our family. We pray together and even share the Word of God together," she said.

And in a village where jobs are so hard to find, Gomotsegang was blessed recently with work at a nearby military base—a gift she credits to God and not the superstitious rituals that she used to trust.

Both Gomotsegang and Agnes have also become leaders at a local church that was recently started in part as an outgrowth of The Greatest Journey classes held in the village.

"My pastor told me just to pray and pray and pray and not to give up," Agnes said. "Now I am close to my mom, I want to honor her, because I want to honor Jesus."

September Bible Quiz Question—What does the Bible say we should take captive? 2 Corinthians 10:5 We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ. (underline mine)

I love the study of the brain. The more I learn about it, the more amazed I am. Our brain is doing things right now that we aren't even conscious of, such as, telling our hearts to beat, telling our lungs to breath, telling our legs not to walk into that wall, etc. Our brain can literally process information faster than the blink of an eye (which is between three- and four-tenths of a second.) With all the advances in technology, there still isn't a computer that can process information at the rate and efficiency of the human brain.

You're probably wondering why I'm talking about the brain. Well, this month's question is about our thought life, and the brain has much to do with that. The brain is full of neuro pathways that send signals all over our body and tell us what to do and think. I like to imagine the neuro pathways as roads. We have highways, city streets, country roads, dirt roads, etc. These pathways have been built by our experiences and the way we react to our experiences. Our brain is designed to use the least amount of energy. So when it is processing information, it will choose the highway first and then work its way down until it gets the information it needs.

So back to our thought life. If my reaction to experiences is continually negative, my brain uses that pathway until I have, in essence, built a highway to a negative thought life. I don't even have to think about being negative, my brain just hops on that highway and goes there. That's one of the reasons habits are so hard to change. We have to consciously tell our brain to take the little country road to a new behavior when all it wants to do is take the highway.

Paul says to "... take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ." That means we have an active role in the process. When something happens, we intentionally choose to take the road to trusting God and His plan for us. Don't know how to do that? Start with scripture. Negative says, "I just lost my job, we're going to lose everything." God says "...in all things God works for the good for those who love him, who have been called according to his purpose." (Romans 8:28)

One of my favorite sayings is "I can't afford to have thoughts in my head about me that God doesn't have in His." God has put us on this earth for a purpose. We all have a destiny. If we are busy fighting negative thoughts instead of taking them captive, we won't have the time or energy for what's really important.

The great thing about our brains is that we are continually creating new neuro pathways. So, if we keep working on it, eventually trusting God becomes our highway and negativity becomes the little country road. So the next time you have a negative thought, make it obedient to Christ.

Because thoughts have consequences, I'm ending this with a quote by Ralph Waldo Emerson:

"Sow a thought and you reap an action; sow an act and you reap a habit; sow a habit and you reap a character; sow a character and you reap a destiny." ~Ralph Waldo Emerson

October Bible Quiz Question

Psalm 100:4 says we are to "enter His gates with" what?

Life is so busy, there are days that, if I could, I would pay for an extra hour or two. When I do finally have some extra time, all I want to do is put my feet up and relax. Someone recently shared this story with me. I don't know if it's a true story but I thought it was a good reminder to take time to value what's really important in life. Enjoy.

The Gift of Time

Sometimes life's most important lessons are learned from the guy next door.

It had been some time since Jack had seen the old man. College, career, and life itself got in the way. In fact, Jack moved clear across the country in pursuit of his dreams. There, in the rush of his busy life, Jack had little time to think about the past and often no time to spend with his wife and son. He was working on his ambitious future, and nothing could stop him.

The phone rang one day. It was his mom, who told him, "Jack, Mr. Belser died last night. The funeral is Wednesday."

Memories flashed through his mind like an old newsreel as he sat quietly remembering his childhood days.

"Jack, did you hear me?" "Oh, sorry, Mom. Yes, I heard you. It's been so long since I thought of him. I'm sorry, but I honestly thought he died years ago," Jack said.

"Well, he didn't forget you. Every time I saw him he'd ask how you were doing. He'd reminisce about the many days you spent over 'his side of the fence' as he put it," Mom told his son. "Yeah, I loved that old house he lived in," Jack said.

"You know, Jack, after your father died, Mr. Belser stepped in to make sure you had a man's influence in your life," she said. "He's the one who taught me carpentry," he said. "I wouldn't be in this business if it weren't for him. He spent a lot of time teaching me things he thought were important ... Mom, I'll be there for the funeral," Jack said.

As busy as he was, he kept his word. Jack caught the next flight to his hometown.

Mr. Belser's funeral was small and uneventful. He had no children of his own, and most of his relatives had passed away.

The night before he had to return home, Jack and his Mom stopped by to see the old house next door one more time. Standing in the doorway, Jack paused for a moment. It was like crossing over into another dimension, a leap through space and time. The house was exactly as he remembered. Every step held memories. Every picture, every piece of furniture ... Jack stopped suddenly.

"What's wrong, Jack?" his Mom asked. "The box is gone," he said. "What box?" Mom asked.

"There was a small gold box that he kept locked on top of his desk. I must have asked him a thousand times what was inside. All he'd ever tell me was 'the thing I value most,'" Jack said.

It was gone. Everything about the house was exactly how Jack remembered it, except for the box. He figured someone from the Belser family had taken it. "Now I'll never know what was so valuable to him," Jack said. "I better get some sleep. I have an early flight home, Mom."

It had been about two weeks since Mr. Belser died. Returning home from work one day, Jack discovered a note in his mailbox. "Signature required on a package. No one at home. Please stop by the main post office within the next three days," the note read.

Early the next day, Jack retrieved the package. The small box was old and looked like it had been mailed a hundred years ago. The handwriting was difficult to read, but the return address caught his attention. "Mr. Harold Belser" it read. Jack took the box out to his car and ripped open the package. There inside was the gold box and an envelope.

Jack's hands shook as he read the note inside. "Upon my death, please forward this box and its contents to Jack Bennett. It's the thing I valued most in my life." A small key was taped to the letter. His heart racing, as tears filling his eyes, Jack carefully unlocked the box.

There inside he found a beautiful gold pocket watch.

Running his fingers slowly over the finely etched casing, he unlatched the cover. Inside he found these words engraved: "Jack, Thanks for your time! - Harold Belser."

"The thing he valued most was ... my time," Jack said to himself as he held the watch for a few minutes.

He then called his office and cleared his appointments for the next two days. "Why?" Janet, his assistant asked. "I need some time to spend with my son," he said.

"Oh, by the way, Janet, thanks for your time!"

Women of Peace & Youth Activities Committee,

Thank you so much for honoring me on Graduate Sunday and for the wonderful gifts. The gift card will help me buy dorm supplies and the quilt will keep me warm on the cold North Dakota Nights. Also, thank you for the book to help remind me that I'm not alone while I'm away at school. Thank you for these blessings and your continued prayers.

-Janessa Berrios

Peace Lutheran Church,

I'd like to send a note of thanks for the $200 scholarship. I appreciate this so much, this will help me with my college expenses. Thank you again for your support and prayers.

-Janessa Berrios

Dear Friends at Peace

Thank you for the generous gifts celebrating my high school graduation. I know the quilt was made with love and care.

Respectfully,
Brockten
